YOGA THE OLDEST SCIENCE OF CONSCIOUSNESS

by JOHN WHITE

YOGA as a word comes from the Sanskrit root yug, meaning "yoke" or "union". Through the purification of consciousness one is united with the source of consciousness, the ground of being, and enlightenment is achieved. Thus yoga as a discipline can be defined as "a science of consciousness". On the basis of historical records, it seems to be the world's oldest.

In order to understand this claim fully, however, we must ask "What is science?" Coming from the Latin Scire, "to know", science has been commonly regarded as "a "accumulated knowledge systematized and formulated with reference to the discovery of general truths or the operational laws, especially when such knowledge relates to thephysical world."

This dictionary definition is not complete, however. The essence of science is its method, not its data. Science is a way of knowing rather than a body of knowledge. The accumulated information of science is obtained through trained oberservation and is empirically verifiable. Scientific method requires that research be presented for validation by the scientific community. A clear description of the techniques and materials used is necessary in the presentation. Then the procedures are carefully repeated by others. If the same results are obtained, the findings become scientific fact.

Understand that way, yoga is indeed a science by which others can verify the effects obtained by a previous researcher. The effects do not pertain primarily to the material world. Rather they deal with the nature of self--that inescapable and fundamer fundamental element that is involved in all knowledge. Science is learning, at last, that a complete description of an event must include a description of the consciousness observing that event. The same event will be seen or described or "known" quite differently by observers whose consciousness is of different quality. The purer the consciousness, the more clearly and fully the event is observed by the knower.

This is where yoga excels--in the purification of consciousness--and where it demonstrates itself to be a true science. As with official Western science, the steps to be followed (including postures, breath control techniques, meditation practices, dietary regulation, rules for balanced living, etc.) are clearly delineated, and the "findings" (stages of enlightenment) have been attested to uniformly by people who hav have carefully repeated these procedures in every century for thousands of years.

Yogi Christopher Hills of Boulder Creek, California, points out that both yoga and modern science are based on two distinct investigative modes, induction and deduction. As applied by science, they result in generalization about things. However, he says, knowledge about is not the same as knowing about things. It is possible to know about horses without having ever seen or ridden one. Such knowing about is judged in yogic terms as theoretical, and lacking in other higher levels of consciousness.

The supreme work of yoga has been to guide people through those higher levels of consciousness so that knowledge about something is surpassed by direct knowledge. So long as there is some mental concept that splits or separates the knower from the known, there will only be knowledge about. But when one pierces the veil of maya, when one sees through the illusion of ego/isolated personhood, when one purifies consciousness, then the division between self and other is healed. The knower and the known become one--the self.

"To realize oneself as the Self", says the Maitrayana Upanishad, "that is the highest mystery." Knowledge of the Self, the One, is what modern science lacks and what makes it incomplete as a means for lerning ultimate truth. But this too shall pass, and already on the frontiers of research, science is coming to realize that, as Yale professor of physics emeritus Henry Margenau has put it, "consciousness....is the primary factor in all experiences, hence it needs and merits the fullest attention any science can bestow on it."

WHAT TO DO?

LEONARD WORTHINGTON

Over a period of years I have received complaints from numbers of psychics and others who complain that they are being unduly prosecuted by the police under local ordinances which at times appear to be unconstitutional, yet the persecutions continue. Oddly enough, none of those who have complained the loudest appear to have ever taken the trouble to organize a group of followers to insist on amending or repealing these laws. With all the persons interested in the field of metaphysics, astrology, healing and the tremendous acceptance by the general public of those nationally recognized personalities who regularly appear on T.V. shows, who make public appearances and give lectures on such matters it requires only some intelligent organization to allow lawmakers to feel pressure of public disapproval of these harsh laws. Yet those most greatly concerned read articles uch as this, agree, but continue t to do nothing.

Then again, many of the person possessing these special talents selfishly refuse to lend their aid to others of their class who are in need of asistance at critical periods. Intead, some of them have actually been known to complain to the police that "why should I be harrassed when Mrs. X down the street is allowed to do the same thing without interference". This type of "dog in the manger" tactics helps no one.

But carrying the remedy farther than has ever been attempted what do you think would happen if for once in their experience numbers of sensitives, psychics, astrologers, etc. would "come to the aid" of their fellow practitioners and attempt to establish before the Courts and huries definite proof of their extraordinary abilities, if they possess them. There are still those ignorant and skeptical members of the public sitting on criminal juries who have yet to understand that there are such talents as divine and psychic gifts far above the capability of the average human and that the use of these qualities should be encouraged rather than persectuted.

Wouldn't it be quite a revelation prior to and during the trial of any one of these cases to have all of the psychics, sensitives, astrologers and gifted persons unite "for once in their lives" and join in a concerted effort to prove beyond all reasonable doubt that they do actually possess the powers they claim to have?

Suppose that it became known that in addition to their lending their services to law enforcement officials, as is often being done in the solution of crime, that to further prove their abilities these "gifted ones" would concentrate their thoughts on every police officer who made an arrest and delved into his past life bringing forth every incident, experience and act which would soundly convince the officer in question that they posssessed divine capabilities which they claimed revealing to that officer that his life was an open book to those within the persecuted class.

And what would happen if these divinely talented ones were to combine their talents to "read" the past life and hidden activities of the judge hearing the case to convince him that the that they certainly were not frauds and were actually able to bring to public light facts which would ordinarily remain hidden only within the memory of the persons involved, thus proving their value to the authorities in helping to solve crimes and promote the public good.

Or, at the time of trial as a demonstration of their talents to be able to actually have a group of persons "read" the members of the jury and bring forth facts which would be

The academic narration will be given by Egyptian scholar ROUF AZIZ. The tour guide will be DARRYL FALK, metaphysician & for many years a professional tour guide in Egypt. Bob Berkey will accompany most tours.

AND, the political climate inside Egypt is good for Americans now! This is the year to go to Egypt! Bob Berkey has hotel guarantees for the next two years, and can organize special tours for your groups, or for individuals. If you can't make the above tours. MARSH MOSSMAN

Most of the Psychic Sciences are on their way out, with the exception of those which can serve most personality analysis - such as graphology and personology. Of course, astrology will always be with us and during the next few years some of our best astrologers will be interested in uncovering karmic influences and past life patterns through natal and pre-natal transition charts. They will find that by progressing planets through the paston an individuals' charts they can find the last death and life cycle.

The Psychic and New Age interests during the next 3 - 5 years will take a strong turn to the "consciousness" level bringing us to working with the attitudes which set our behavior patterns. New Age leaders will sue methods of Psychic psychology and a way of quickly seeking out programmed responses that bring on conditioned responses to life - from parental upbringing, environement, society and karmic influences. This will work especially well with the under 30 age group & expand their awareness, freeing much of their earthbound consciousness and opening to them a real understanding of the evolution of man. Because of this and the other ascpects of conciousness which is quickly to become apparent in the next three years - (the under 30. hat is, we are becoming aware that when a person is dishonest or expressing a falseness of any kind we feel that energy. And so it becomes: its not what you say but rather what I feel when you speak.)

These conditions will cause many to be faced with a strong choice. They may either pretend or they may follow their own inner nature, as an example, people felt an energy behind the plot of John Kennedy's death. Despite what the facts said the people continued and will still continue to look for another answer because inside of them they know there was a plot.

Reagon sadly will be lected.

Medicine will be forced to become socialized. Soon this will start with the government offering to pay young people who could not afford to become doctors but show skill and talent, to go through school.

This will work us progressively into this system, and will not deteriorate our medical profession but bring us many dedicated doctors who will give their all, for they won't be money conscious but interested in the well-being of Man.

Many drugs and unnatural food products will continue to be taken off the market - turning us more to Nature.....People are and will become ever more food concious because of the many harmful products being recalled.

Television will take a turn for the worse before it sees the light. Struggling to keep America oriented to the fast paced living and keeping up with the Jonses. But they will soon find out that the bulk of America's young want quality and will not respond ignorantly to its pleas.

Danny Kaye will be seen doing something meaningful in the public.

Flip Wilson will drop out of his TV persnality and change his image.

RANDOM HOUSE, INC. 201 EAST FIFTIETH STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

HISTORY, TECHNIQUES AND USES OF VISUALIZATION EXPLORED IN NEW BOOK

Close your eyes and picture the street you live on, your office, your childhood school. You are now seeing with your mind's eye. Whether we are aware of it or not, we all have the natural ability to visualize. Thoughts, memories, dreams, imagination, nightmares, hallucinations, flashes, fantasies, daydreams, hopes -- all of these are part of the inner visual world that occupies about a third of our lives. Visualization has been important in cultures throughout history, but only recently have we begun to understand it.

In SEEING WITH THE MIND'S EYE (November 26, 1975; $9.95 paper. A Random House/Bookworks Book), the first comprehensive survey in its field, Mike and Nancy Samuels describe the varieties of visualization experience and explore how our visual images can be used to affect our lives. With practical exercises and techniques for developing and increasing our visual powers, they show how we can learn to use them productively in family and work situations, in medicine and psychology, artistic creativity, parapsychology or spiritual development. Illustrated throughout with drawings and photographs, the authors also discuss the history, nature and science of visualization, from ancient Egyptian philosophy to twentieth century psychotherapy.

Mike Samuels, M.D. is co-author of THE WELL BODY BOOK, SPIRIT GUIDES and BE WELL. His wife, Nancy, is an art teacher and editor.

Many parts of the New Age meovements will be forced to legalize or go underground in th in their activities.

The Gay and Female Liberation movements will greatly slowdown, for those who are coming into office have a natural acceptance and it will no longer be so necessary to expound on their needs to be seen as equals. The pendulum has swung to both extremes in public view and the balance will take time.

People like Geraldo Rivera will become heroes to the youth of today. The reason for the response will be the respect given to the using of one's own true logic and reasoning abilities.

Respect for individuality will develop but first there will be two kinds of movements apparent especially in spiritual groups, those seen publicly in politics and the established religions as well. One will cry Unity and Brotherhood, to let go of individuality for the universal good. This one is and has always been the controlling faction. The other concerns itself with the demonstration of Unity in the over all through the respect for individuality. This one is the Aquarian Consciousness that shall lead us to brotherhood.

Again Consciousness Awareness phys a large part in the next few years of our evolution. For we all are going to have to admit to ourselves where we are in our thinking and attitudes and where we want to be!! And then, which one we are going to live and express.

School systems are going to continue a rapid change in order to keep up with the natural expansion of youth. They can no longer be tamed and programmed as a few generations ago and here the school systems that learn the expansion of the individual consciousness will excel and turn out many wonderful people-who will find their way set easily set easily for them.

Those that ry to enforce the old rules will find rebellion and discontent strong. The youth of today are already to aware to simply accept.

Many large companies will be forced into bankruptcy, including some smaller banks, during the next few years. Not the largest but those trying to wait out the crisies this country is experiencing economically.

Many more will be jobless and breadlines of Welfare will increase. We will be amking choices of feeding America or foreign aid.

The wealthy will be giving up or renting their country homes and not taking so many trips abroad.

America, as it has already started to do, will be recycling many items among itself, through flea markets and garage sales.

Middle class America will be the hardest hit - having to choose between putting on the dog and leading the simple life.

Pollution problems will hit new highs in some places, but the problems can easily be solvedfor we have the technology to do so if we choose.

Plans of a new space flight will make many very angry over where the money is going. It will not go far.

America will watch as the new government tries to bring our country back in order and while America watches governement, big business will take over the economy structure.

Many have yet realized the three-way struggle: Government, business-people. We aim too much at the wrong targets!

TWELVE GOOD REASONS TO BUY THIS HOROSCOPE

1 This horoscope is about you—your life. That is something to take seriously. The Astral Portrait by Para Research provides an in-depth psychological approach to astrology. Not light reading. It won't provide easy answers to your problems. But it will serve as a guide to a better life.

2 It's the only horoscope to make a 300 word comparison of your Sun and Moon signs: the relationship between your conscious drives and your unconscious feelings.

3 Other horoscopes often omit the ascendent because it requires the exact time of birth. It tells a lot about how you approach life. It is an important part of your Astral Portrait because it includes the position of your first house and the interpretation and placement of the ruling planet.

4 It's the only horoscope to give you a house-by-house analysis. Your outlook on life. Sex. Friends. Relatives. Responsibilities. Attitudes. How to communicate. How you work.

5 It's the only horoscope with 300 words or more on each planetary aspect. Not just favorable or unfavorable ones, but each and every conjunction, sextile, square, trine, inconjunct and opposition. These aspects are character traits determined by the angular relationship between planets at your birth.

6 It's bigger and better than ever. 15,000 words in over 35 pages. Besides the above you get lists of each planet in its sign, each aspect, famous people with the same Sun sign as yourself. Also explanatory text on how to read and understand your horoscope.

7 You get precise calculations that only a computer can provide without error. From exact time, date and place of birth our IBM 370-155 sorts out 24,000,000 bits of astrological information objectively, and without bias.

8 No waiting. No searching for good astrologers. No appointments to make. Processing begins the day we receive your order. It is personally prepared and checked for accuracy. Within ten days it is mailed to you first class.

9 It's not like the simple sun-sign astrology found in newspapers. It's more complex. It's personal. It's one-of-a-kind. As no two people are alike, no two Astral Portraits are alike.

10 All this is yours for only $10. A better value than ever before. New improved, expanded text. Despite increasing production costs it's still the same low price.

11 It's America's foremost computer horoscope. Written by the best professional astrologers. Programmed by expert technicians. Developed by Para Research, the fastest growing company in computer astrology. Recommended and sold by the nation's major astrological associations.

12 Your Astral Portrait comes with a money back guarantee. If not satisfied, just return the horoscope for a full refund.

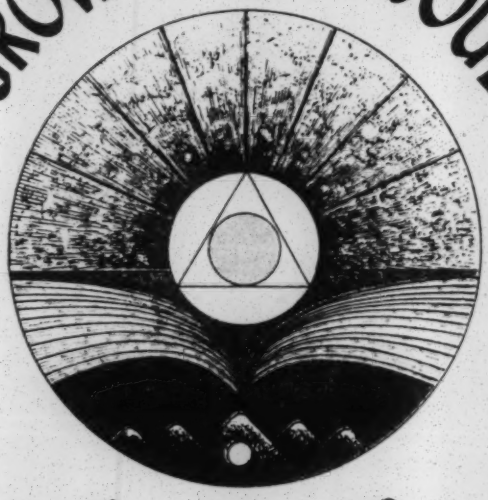
The GROWTH OF A SOUL



by PHYLOS

Phylos Speaks:

". . . . . So we are workers on patterns that we cannot see. We spin and weave our little lives, then find a broken thread; this is the secret to work out. How did it come there? What have we done or left undone, that snapped the thread so short?"

". . . . . So does all youth stand and await fulfillment which comes upon them unaware; purifying some and defiling others, and touching others not at all. There are souls who never know their destiny until they have passed through earth form innumerable times."

". . . . . for it is not the burdens that you have that bear you down, it is the lack of knowledge of how to handle them that so encompasses you: for once you know that Spirit aids you on your way, the path is cleared, and you then know the how and why; and in this knowing, you choose the [illegible] must hold to vanquish those who have no [illegible] this by might or mind, the power of justice is at hand; and what is time that it can anchor you? It may take years to right a wrong, but in this effort you must stri[illegible]

". . . . . You mortals say that God could wave His hand and all would do His will: and so He could; but that is not His way of doing what He would. He wants His children, each and all, to find their way to Him; self-willed and self-propelled, by choice and intuition."

". . . . . Look, Mortals, how you build. You write your problems as you go and what you write is added up; it is your hand, your mind, your heart, that makes up the sum total of your fate."

Again, After many years

PHYLOS SPEAKS

"The Growth of a Soul" will be the third best seller authored by Phylos, the Tibetan Master.

In "Dweller on Two Planets", published in the late 1890's, Phylos shocked the religious world with his description of life on Atlantis and Lemuria and his references to previous lives. His second best seller was a sequel, "The Earth Dweller Returns", published in the 30's. Now, in "The Growth of a Soul", Phylos uses the lives of a rich and poor monk, and a wealthy, spiritual woman and a beautiful cortesan, symbolically and allegorically, as the four aspects of the struggle you must go through as you grope your way to understanding your relationship to the eternal.

Rich in prose and occasionally flavored with a delicate rhythm reminiscent of Shakespeare, "The Growth of a Soul" is interspersed with "asides" from the Master, which dramatically pinpoint the lessons you will have to learn, either in this life or another.

About the Author

Phylos, now in the Spirit world and who has attained through many lives liberation from the Wheel of Life again contacts Earth in the name of the Hierarchy to impart knowledge necessary to gain wisdom and expansion of consciousness. In this book, Phylos employs a new and unique method of adding impact and understanding to his message. While narrating the story, Phylos speaks in asides, directly to you, to pinpoint the lessons to be learned.

The Channel

This manuscript was brought into manifestation by one of a group of women who met regularly in Sausalito, California to contact their Masters through Guided writing. The Earthly channel, (who has since passed from this world) has insisted that she remain anonymous.

It took several years of regular sittings to complete the manuscript. The Channel frequently contacted Phylos over a period of roughly 15 years for instruction as to what to do with it. The answer was always the same, "At the right time you will be told what to do with it." Apparently the "right time" was in December of 1972, when the custodian of the manuscript, Josephine Taylor was told to give it to this publisher, of whom, at the time, she had no knowledge.

Foreword by Gina Cerminara, Ph.D.

At last, here is the definitive book we've long waited for on the probabilities of a California superquake.

Solidly based on painstaking eclectic research, this is at once a specific "future shock" book, a cracked earth "catalog," a "how to" book and a Cayce book which counters widespread misinformation with the most holistic data available.

- Will California experience a cataclysm?
- Can we reasonably ascertain when?
- What is the evidence?

Supported by earth scientists and substantiated by instrument readings, this book includes the verbatim prophecies of Cayce, Nostradamus, Dixon, Anderson, and many others. Also included are the work of artists and pronouncements from the I Ching, astrology, the Bible and fundamentalists.

The manuscript of this book was sabotaged by a leading literary agent. Was it lent out for use in writing the script for the much-toned-down movie Earthquake? The movie (starring Charlton Heston and Ava Gardner) is supposed to be based on an "over 10" magnitude superquake but this isn't shown. Realistic severities are found only in this book. It could save countless lives by identifying the two unambiguous warning signs. Read it and decide for yourself.

The cost of this book should be measured only by the lives it can save.

"There may be more awful threat to human happiness than earthquake. I do not know what it can be."—Frank Lloyd Wright.

Edgar Cayce is the world's greatest prophet of record. Nearly nine million copies of books have been published about him. With four biographies out (one a best seller and three in paperback now) and a movie on his early life coming up, he is becoming not only a much quoted prophet but also a frequently and widely misquoted one.

Did he predict that a significant chunk of California would sink into the Pacific?

Many seismologists agree that a major quake in California is long overdue; all seismologists agree that it is inevitable. The seriousness of this situation should make everyone who cares about Californians acutely interested in what Edgar Cayce said regarding the all important question, When will the catastrophe strike?

Since Cayce has predicted earthquakes and land rises with astonishing accuracy, how can we afford not to heed his California superquake prophecies?

Without question, the social cost of taking Edgar Cayce seriously will be staggering, but the social cost of not doing so most probably will be astronomical!

"Technological man is bewitched by the dangerous illusion that he can build bigger and bigger industrial societies with scant regard for the iron laws of nature . . . 'Pessimists argue that only a catastrophe can change that attitude . . .'" convincing enough to prove that the ordinance relied on was in fact an unlawful infringement on religious practices and a restriction of a citizen's divine rights. Can you imagine the impact on a trial of this nature if the accused had the united support of a score of practitioners to help expose facts which had not previously been made known through any normal means? Or to be willing to go to the members of the Board of Supervisors, who had supported or were supporting an unfair ordinance, and in masse read each individual member, presenting to each one, hidden skeletons in his closet, which could only be revealed by persons possessing divine talents. I think that in the face of such evidence members of any law making board would think twice before they passed restricitve legislature denying to divinely gifted persons the right to practice in the proper manner.

Are these just idle and lifeless thought or are the members of the metaphysical fraternity sufficiently interested in their cause to place energies behind legitimate efforts to bring about necessary and constructive changes in our laws? WHAT DO YOU PLAN TO DO ABOUT IT?

Editors Note: The views expressed here are those of the author and not necessarily tho those of the U-C Foundation. However, we will be interested in your response. Because we know of the concentrated efforts that Mr. Worthington has put forth to bring into manifestation changes in the laws of this country, and of the lack of help and real interest that he has received from those who should be concerned the most!

The clean-up will continue in government and government officials. It will appear very messy and corruption will be shown. But it should be realized that this is an uprooting and a house cleaning that all America needs to do in their own consciousness. Business however again seems exempt. It will be a while before this is realized to the point where ehlpful action can be taken.

True mystical experiences will be much present during these next five years but it will be hard for the public to know which is which unless they listen to their own inner responses.

A seeming miracle will be heralded and called false at the same time. One must judge for himself.

A large computor system will fail suddenly and throw everyone in a dither, as it is in regards to a security system it is a warning - to our state of being.

Strikes will lessen as fear and unemployment rises.

Extreme measures of change will take place in the government spending in order to aid the country and provide.

Food for the world will be a cry still heard as many crops continue to be lost.

Crowded airways will lessen ans some airlines will experience bankruptcy.

New diseases will continue to crop up and a recurrence of one thought long under contro will cause many children to suddenly need to be imminized.

Doctors will realize the need for more work on a patient's mental state in regards to illness and disease, though the shortage of doctors presently will make it frustrating for they cannot yet take the time to examine or pursue this to any lengths.

Atmosphere - light, color, sound - will be much more though out in the years ahead as an aid or hinderance to consciousness development.

Car lines will change drastically in the next five years. This began two years ago.

The old will continue to be valued as much as the new in the years ahead.

As everything speeds up in evolution, so much, so fast will be experienced.

As we said, the old will continue to be valued - except for the aged in this country for with few exceptions they have not gained the respect due them throught their wethering of it all. They ar elooked upon as stagnant in the changing fortunes of time and shall contiue for another 10-20 years to suffer their age indignantly, while we turn to what seems to be more pressing problems of survival.

Kissinger's attempted assasination may never hit the papers -- but his political assisination will!. When a new man takes his place -- Beware!!

Gayne Myers

As he traveled through the years, he gathered students from afar. He left his mark on this earth plane, that of beauty and a soft spoken nature that was loved and respected by all. A serious student of metaphysics for over 60 years, Harry (better known to all as Gayne) Myers left this earth plane in December of 1975 to take up his tasks on the other side. His teachers told him that his job here had been completed. But to those who knew and loved him, always will remain behind the many things he did in love and kindness.

He will be remembered as one of the great teachers, not only because he was always concidered to be one of the true people with conversations from outer space, but because this was only a side line. He was a teacher of men, a teacher that people could understand and relate to.
